

Launch of OralJobs.com.au Set to Change the Face of Recruitment.

The Personnel Concept Group today unveiled a world first in recruitment, OralJobs.com.au a specialist web portal that delivers jobs in a fully audio and visual multimedia environment.

The OralJobs.com.au website is unlike anything seen (or heard) in the recruitment industry. At the core of OralJobs.com.au are real consultants in the form of Avatars which “read” selected jobs to candidates.

Job seekers have full control over the Avatars and can navigate to a network of sites more Engineer Jobs, Mine Jobs, Accountant Jobs, IT Jobs and Construct Jobs. At anytime a job seeker can pause or switch from the ‘spoken’ version of the job to a text based version for more detailed information.

In addition to listening to selected jobs, job seekers have the option of podcasting each job or saving the audio file to their PC or MP3 player for review at a more convenient time or place away from a computer. Audio and text versions of the jobs can also be sent in SMS or e-mail format directly and easily from the website to friends.

Founder of Personnel Concept in Australia and overseas, Christo Constantaras believes OralJobs.com.au brings an exciting new perspective to online recruitment and is in line with multimedia websites such as YouTube.com and Facebook.com.

“In developing OralJobs.com.au our aim was to bring the job hunting environment to life. With an overwhelming number of agencies and job boards in Australia we felt it was time to evolve from the traditional model and deliver a more dynamic and engaging experience to job seekers” he said.

“OralJobs.com.au is a world first and allows us to communicate one-to-one with candidates and provide a deeper insight of each position”.

The recruitment industry is witnessing a strong uptake of new technology as agencies and job boards begin to search for ways to differentiate and attract quality candidates in a market of record unemployment lows.

Future development plans for the site will include video resumes and other interactive candidate tools.

OralJobs is more than simply talking jobs - it is a whole new experience in recruitment. For a truly unique job hunting experience visit www.OralJobs.com.au
